AIHce EXP 2021 is an opportunity for me to fine-tune my skills, learn about new research and techniques, network with peers, and take a deeper dive into issues affecting the profession and the workers we protect. I plan to learn new ways to address our short and long-term health and safety (H&S) challenges; ensure our H&S strategy addresses current H&S science and all necessary and appropriate guidelines and government regulations; and develop the techniques needed to anticipate, recognize, evaluate, and control potentially dangerous situations in the workplace. With nearly 200 education sessions to choose from, I will learn about best practices, current technology/tools, and practical solutions, as well as engage in problem-solving discussions with the industry leaders on the cutting edge of protecting worker health.
