

North American Agriculture Safety Summit

February 23-24, 2027

Holiday Inn San Antonio - Riverwalk
San Antonio, Texas

Who is ASHCA?

The Agricultural Safety & Health Council of America (ASHCA) is a national nonprofit organization dedicated to improving safety and health across American agriculture. Since 2007, ASHCA has brought together leaders in farming, livestock, produce, education, and agribusiness to address emerging safety challenges and promote safer, healthier agricultural workplaces.

Why Attend?

Gain practical farm and workplace safety insights, discover new tools and innovations, and network with others committed to protecting people, livestock, crops, and agricultural operations.

Why Sponsor or Exhibit?

Connect with agriculture safety leaders, farm operators, livestock and produce professionals, and industry decision-makers. Showcase products, services, and solutions that help keep farms, facilities, and rural workplaces safer and stronger.

New for 2027 Two Educational Tracks!

Customize your learning experience with two focused tracks:

- Crop Safety Track
- Livestock Safety Track

Choose the sessions that best match your business, interests, and industry needs. Whether you work with crops, livestock, or both, you'll find practical safety education tailored to you.

Call for Abstracts Now Open – Lightning Talks and Poster Presentations

Abstract submission is open to the public, with the understanding that the Summit audience includes agribusiness representatives, farm organization leaders, state and national public officials, news media, and agricultural safety and health professionals. Priority will be given to abstracts that focus on practices and interventions for production agriculture to improve the health and safety of those engaged in agricultural work, including owner/operators, farm families, hired workers, on-farm service providers, and others who live on or visit farms.
