AIHCE INVADES
NASHVILLE
MAY 23RD–25TH

Monday, May 23
8:00 a.m.-9:30 a.m. CT
Captain Chris Cassidy

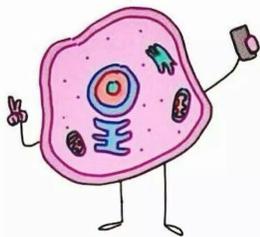

From the depths of the ocean to beyond Earth's atmosphere, Captain Chris Cassidy knows how to assess risk in pursuit of a successful mission. A decorated and former U.S. Navy SEAL and recently retired NASA astronaut, Captain Cassidy successfully navigated all kinds of environments through effective risk assessment strategies and tactics.

Join your peers and colleagues at AIHce EXP in Nashville to hear stories and lessons from Captain Cassidy's storied career to share with audiences the keys to managing and assessing risk, and effective decision-making. From the ship boardings in the Persian Gulf to unplanned spacewalks from the International Space Station to 180-mile kayak trips in Virginia, you'll discover a fresh perspective on when to push and when to pivot to secure success.

Jeffrey T. Killip named New Cal/OSHA Chief

Gov. Gavin Newsom has appointed Jeff Killip, of Olympia, WA, as the new Chief of the Division of Occupational Safety and Health (Cal/OSHA). Mr. Killip has served in various capacities at the Washington State Department of Labor and Industries since 2012. He started his professional career in 1987 as Assistant Regional Counsel at the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, Region 2.

Mr. Killip has an MPH from the Johns Hopkins University Bloomberg School of Public Health and a JD from the Seattle University School of Law.

This position requires Senate confirmation.

President's Column

Scott Bourdon

It is my pleasure to share this 2022 President's message with the OCAIHA membership. Our Local Section membership numbers grew significantly last year despite the many societal challenges that have characterized the 20s so far. This growth reflects the vision of Past President and the dedication of the Board. This year's Board will continue to offer opportunities for our members to collaborate, contribute, and connect with each other and other local OEHS professionals.

To deliver on this promise, we will host a series of virtual and in-person activities and events that promote participation and networking. We will partner with local OEHS organizations where appropriate, and we want to explore community service and mentoring opportunities.

To ensure our members are well informed we will strive to include interesting, consistent, and value-added information into messaging and communications. This will include work on our website, social media sites, newsletter, and emails. It also includes effective onboarding of new members, synergies with National AIHA, and effective promotion of our activities.

If all goes as planned, we will initiate a strategic planning effort. A focused session with the Board would be a good start. We could solidify some metrics to monitor the performance of our local section over time and further add value for our members.

Thanks for your time in reading this message and I look forward to seeing you this year (in-person at some point I hope)!

Scott Bourdon, CIH, CSP, ARM

Subject: Protecting Workers from Occupational Hearing Loss

Every year, over 22 million workers in the United States are exposed to harmful noise levels at work. Hazardous noise levels can lead to occupational hearing loss and impact a worker's quality of life. Occupational hearing loss is the most common U.S work-related illness and the third most common chronic physical condition after high blood pressure and arthritis.

NIOSH Noise Recommendations

The NIOSH Recommended Exposure Limit (REL) is 85 decibels as an 8-hr time weighted average (TWA). Anything higher is hazardous.

NIOSH recommends using the Hierarchy of Controls to reduce noise hazards. Provide hearing protection to workers when hazardous noise levels cannot be reduced to an acceptable level

Hazardous noise exposure occurs in every industry. Protect worker by following the recommendations. #WorkerSafety <https://bit.ly/OHWJan2022>
